Typically 6–12 months from first interview to final delivery. Some memoirs take longer depending on your schedule and availability for interviews and review. Your timeline will naturally extend if you need to pause the project or require extra time to review chapters or the final proof copy.

If you have a special occasion or deadline in mind (such as a birthday, anniversary, or family celebration), I will make every effort to expedite the process if I consider the timeline viable. If not viable, I will advise you at the outset so we can discuss alternatives.
